

FIRE ANT

ANARCHIST PRISONER SOLIDARITY

This issue of Fire Ant is dedicated to the memory of Aragorn. Little Black Cart publications have had a huge influence on the way we see the world.

This is issue #6, Winter 2020. Fire Ant is a collaboration between anarchist prisoners and free roaming anarchists. Fire Ant seeks to raise material aid for anarchist prisoners while fostering communication between anarchists on both sides of the walls.

To support the anarchist prisoner war fund, please email bloomingtonanarchistblackcross@riseup.net. All money will go directly to prisoners. The fund currently supports Michael Kimble, Jennifer Rose, Eric King, Sean Swain, and Marius Mason.

To download this publication, please go to bloomingtonabc.noblogs.org.

Front and back cover art by Sean Swain. Inside cover by Marius Mason.

Thanks to the Bloomington crew for all their hard work on this project! Thanks also to Michael, Jennifer, Marius, Eric, Noah, Thomas, Sean, Patrick, Rochelle, Pepe, Argyle crew, Peter and Fifth Estate, the Burning Books crew, Little Black Cart, Crimethinc, Gloo Factory, Final Straw radio, MJ from Idaho, the Squashed Crew, Matt D, Risa, Cal, Dave, Olivia, Owl, Mini, Baba Yaga and the North Woods green anarchist horde.

To Go Further by Michael Kimble

In the late 60's, and early 70's, the prison movement in the U.S. was at a high point. You had Pontiac, Attica, San Quentin, etc. at the forefront of the prison movement. Much of this is due to the repression on the outside against political activists, and revolutionaries coming into the prisons, energized from the movement on the streets. Work strikes, slow downs, and hunger strikes have long been some of the weapons in the arsenal of prison rebels and activists alike for a long time. And what has it done? Nothing.

Yeah, laws have been passed, but it has not brought a halt to the torture chambers or slavery. Prisons still exist. Torturing and enslaving more than ever. How can anyone seriously think that work strikes, hunger strikes, and demonstrations could ever put a stop to the super-exploitation and slavery? What is the purpose of the strikes and demos? What do we aspire to when taking part in them? Are the tactics effective and most importantly, do they liberate anyone? Or is the goal just to get media attention, which does not change shit? Everyone knows someone locked up. Shit! There's over 2 million of us locked down in this muthafucka. We didn't come from another planet. Prisoners come from all over the United States, from communities that you belong to. We are your brothers, sisters, sons and daughters, etc. So it's not like folks don't know what's going on. They are apathetic to this nightmare because deep down they believe in the inherent "goodness", "fairness" and "justice" of this capitalist governmental system. How else could mass incarceration, slavery and prisons exist without the complicity of society? Just recently, prisoners' rights activists from Alabama demonstrated in Washington, DC, in front of the Department of Justice. They were demanding that the DOJ do its job in filing suit against the state of Alabama, because of its prison system not running smoothly. My first reaction to this was to ask "Why DC? We're in Alabama." How crazy can we be, asking an institution to spank its own ass? The DOJ is part of the prison industrial slave complex. I don't think we're thinking clearly. Most prisoners cheer when someone from the outside steps forward and champions our cause. Most prisoners feel helpless and powerless in the face of Leviathan, and any help is welcomed. We never do any critical thinking. We are just happy someone thinks our lives matter. It's a validation of our humanity. The point is, that we have gotten stuck in a certain mode of action without really thinking things through. Or we are just doing something because we believe and know something has to be done, and the only models we have are the above mentioned forms of struggle which have become our comfort zone?

In conclusion, have those tactics liberated anyone? That's the only politics relevant to the captive. Or should be. Let's develop new forms of struggle that's liberating and not just about making more laws and the smooth running of prisons.

Let's go further.

Until every cage is empty,
Michael Kimble

A letter from Thomas Meyer-Falk 10/19/19

Dear comrades!

Thank you so much for the latest issue of Fire Ant! It is a great pleasure to connect with you and get this kind of information.

Last month I wrote an article about prisoners' view on prisons; I was asked to write an article for an international book project (abolish prisons and transformative justice) by some professors in the UK and USA.

About my own situation I wrote about "consecrated to death in prison", because the court won't set me free in the foreseeable future.

Well, I hope all of you are doing well- in complicated times, in a complicated world and convicted to live in a country governed by a fucking white supremacy activist.

All the best to you!

Much love and respect,
Thomas

Fire Ant,

Well, by now you should have heard that I was thrown in the hole on the 2nd of December. Yeah, this pig was assaulting another prisoner, and I intervened. This is a notorious and nasty pig of the hated CERT (riot squad).

Anyway, this pig has come to my cell and threatened me. These pigs on the CERT are well known for retaliating and harassing prisoners who refuse to show fear and submission. They have been known to get prisoners to do their dirty work. So I'm not coming out of my cell for anything (showers, infirmary, etc). I won't allow them to maneuver me into a blind spot away from cameras and illegal cell phones.

What I need everyone to do is bombard the Warden, Cynthia Stuart, and the Commissioner Jeff Dunn, with calls and faxes, demanding that I be released into general population, or transferred to another prison out of concern for my safety. I need this to be a campaign.

I refuse to eat when CERT members are working lock up, and serving trays in the lock up unit.

Make it known that my due process rights have been violated and denied. Whenever a prisoner is placed in lock up they are supposed to be served a notice that they are being placed in segregation for named offense. Within 72 hours that prisoner status must be reviewed if no disciplinary, or other action has been taken. I've received no paperwork, not even the 72 hour notice, and my 72 hours have expired. Demand that they follow their own regulations.

Update From Eric King 2/15/20

I heard that the prosecutor in my case, Aaron Titlebaum, decided to offer us a plea deal. For those not aware, I am facing one count of assaulting an officer with a weapon or causing serious bodily injury. A year and a half ago, August 17th 2018, I was pulled into a broom closet and attacked by Lt Donald Wilcox. I did what needed to be done to stop him from beating me. I've been in the SHU ever since, 18 months.

Aaron clearly doesn't know me, he clearly doesn't understand how painful, enraging, and personal this is. Does he not realize that he is directly trying to prevent me from being with my family? Trying to keep me from being at my daughters' graduations, from holding them during heartbreaks and celebrating their victories. He is receiving a six figure paycheck to ensure I can't celebrate birthdays and anniversaries with my partner, that I miss the World Cup in 2026. Right now, the BOP, acting hand in hand with the DA, has been doing everything possible to prevent me from defending myself. 18 months without a single phone call. No contact visits, one hour a week, only just returned in December. My lone legal call interrupted mid-talk by an apologetic officer on the line. The person responsible for my legal visits- who continually ignores requests from my lawyer- Lt Humphries- is openly friends with "witnesses" who will be testifying against me. The Lts responsible for my "discipline", the S.I.S. in charge of my mail, all openly friends with the same people. Lt. Kamrad, Cpt. Giconi, Lt. Reynolds, Lt. Wilcox, the people who stomped my head in, who four-pointed me while promising to have me beat and raped. It's all the same, they are all friends. American justice, am I right?

The plea deal offered? I plea guilty, relinquish my right to appeal, my right to sue, consent to my own beating and further incarceration, and my reward? That he won't ask to go above my guidelines. That he won't seek to go above legal guidelines based off the severity of the "crime" and "criminal" history. The hidden meaning, of course, being if I take it to trial, he will seek above. Eat shit, Aaron. I am an anarchist, a revolutionary, a fighter. I will never passively submit to my own oppression or that of others.

Rise up Anarchists, rise up and strike back. Strike first. We are not railroad tracks. In the spirit of W.V.S., of Tom Manning. See you all at trial.

-Eric King

Dear Fire Ant,

Here's some important updates for FA #6. On 10/28/19 several members of Sacramento Prisoner Support were in attendance at my resentencing hearing. My petition for recall of sentence under California's Prop 36, Three Strikes Reform Act, was granted, and I was given a sentence reduction from 25 years to life, knocked down to 8 years, to the applause and raised fists of myself and supporters! However, this only affected one of my sentences, and I still have another 25 years to life sentence which remains. This concludes my interactions with the criminal courts and exhausts my appeals. My focus will now be on an upcoming parole hearing, which is scheduled this June or July by the Board of Parole Hearings. Under a new California law, Prop 57, the Public Safety and Rehabilitation Act, I am now eligible for early parole consideration as I've already served my "full term" for a "non-violent" or "non-serious" third strike. Of course, this will require the Board to find me "suitable" for release on parole.

At a BPH consultation last September, it was recommended that I remain "disciplinary free" and immediately changed my institutional behavior by avoiding any further rule violation reports. I have a long list of assaulting and resisting officers, fighting to defend myself against racist and homophobic inmates and "peace" officers, who I've been targeted by and attacked by on regular basis. I was also told to develop a written parole plan, produce support letters from family and friends, obtain letters of acceptance from transitional housing or residential treatment programs, participate in self-help groups/ rehabilitation programs for which I can earn certificates of completion, including a relapse prevention plan because of past drug addition.

An additional focus of my legal campaign will be to send an application for commutation of sentence to Governor Gavin Newsome in Sacramento, to request that my other 25 years to life sentence for a "non-violent" or "non-serious" felony be commuted. There was no "great bodily injury" and I've already been in prison for 30 years.

I'm 50 years old, I've served my time, and I'm about to have gender affirming surgery, after which I'll be rehoused in a women's facility. In ten more years, I'll also be eligible for elderly parole program consideration, which also requires them to find you "suitable" and not "presenting an unreasonable risk to public safety".

Anyone able and willing to support my campaign for release can write a support letter to the Board of Parole Hearings, and/or to Governor Gavin Newsome. Please send these letters, or a copy, directly to me.

Finally, one issue I'd like to address for the readers of our newsletter, is the purpose of our collective. It is to build solidarity, action, and material aid for imprisoned anarchist comrades, whether "politicized" in prison or already engaged in direct action resistance outside of prison.

Although the newsletter is facilitated and formatted by Maine comrades, and printed by Bloomington ABC, and all the content is from imprisoned anarchists, much of the resources for this project are coming out of pocket. All of the above mentioned folks, along with specific anarchist prisoners, are what makes up the Fire Ant collective. We are all very determined and committed to this social revolution toward anarchy. The struggle is our life! Solidarity is our greatest weapon! Please join us!

If you are a reader of Fire Ant, we encourage you to please give us feedback and contribute funds toward our purpose of providing material aid to imprisoned anarchist rebels. Please donate to our anarchist prisoner war fund. Please email bloomingtonanarchistblackcross@riseup.net. I can assure that these funds are going directly to anarchist prisoners. Thank you!

International anti-fascist solidarity!

A letter from Thomas Meyer-Falk 1/7/20

Dear comrades of Fire Ant!

Thanks a lot for your card and I wish all of you the best for 2020! Health, hope and the burning flame in all of your hearts.

Well, I wish the weather would be a little bit colder here, because the temperatures are like spring.

I'll attach a short article, but you have to "translate" it.

Hope you had a good New Years day. Here in Freiburg, 40-50 comrades came at 6pm on New Years Eve to the prison wall. They made loud noises and had a fire works display. A public radio station broadcasted the event live.

All the best to all of you,
Thomas

Freiburg Prison Update by Thomas Meyer-Falk

Lothar, a 60 year old inmate of the preventative detention unit in Freiburg's prison, got in trouble. Preventative detention became law in 1933 under the Nazi regime. It allows the state to keep an inmate in prison after finishing the regular sentence, possibly for life, if the administration and the court deems them "a threat" to public safety. Lothar was transferred from a Bavarian prison to Freiburg, and wasn't amused about the living conditions here. He argued often with the warden of the PD unit. One time he told the warden he found out where the warden was born and his date of birth. For that, he was sent to the isolation unit. The warden felt threatened by Lothar. Lothar went to court and appealed against the prison's decree. A few weeks later, the local court issued a temporary injunction that the isolation had to be suspended. The director ignored the court's order, and sent Lothar back to Bavaria, where he is still in isolation. Another inmate, Shorty, was involved in the case. His cell was raided, all his legal papers were confiscated, and he was moved to another unit. I published an article about Lothar's situation, but the case wasn't interesting enough for the mass media.

My own cell was raided in November. All legal stuff was confiscated. All legal papers and books were inspected. Don't know what they were looking for. Maybe because police tried to connect me with a burnt truck? A company in Bavaria, Massak Logistik, has a monopoly on delivering food to the inmates (highest prices for lowest quality). A gold mine for the owners. Last year someone burnt one of their trucks. Because in the last few years I published a series of articles about this company, the police have tried to connect me and my visitors to the event. Two times in 2019 some construction vehicles were burned in East Germany at a prison building site in Saxonia. Whoever burned the vehicles referred to me and my situation. More reasons to search my cell. It was frustrating. However, whatever frustrates us also gives us power.

These are a few examples from this side of the ocean that are typical of the daily prison routine. Typical of the strategy to break inmates, harass them, and provoke them. The inhuman and degrading prison system must be overcome. It must be defeated. It's up to us to struggle against it day and night, 24/ 365!

I wish all of you, no matter where you are, much power and hope. Let's keep the fire blazing in all our hearts!

-Thomas Meyer-Falk

Hey ho, the world's on fire!
And it's still run by thieves and liars
Who build cities out of funeral pyres-
Hey ho, the world's on fire!

Hey ho, the Amazon
The trees who feed us oxygen
Are up in smoke and gone, gone, gone-
Hey ho, the world's on fire!

Hey ho, koala bears
Are burnt to cinders, running scared
And Exxon lawyers never cared-
Hey ho, the world's on fire!

Hey ho, as Cali burns
We share the shame, but no one learns
That this is how the whole world turns-
Hey ho, the world's on fire!

Letter From Noah Coffin 2/20/20

Dear Fire Ant,
Hey, update on new totalitarian policies. No more can friends or families send in any: doodles, scented or colored paper, cards or postcards, no more than 10 pictures (even if they are on the same page). Only people on "approved visitation lists" can send funds to Texas inmates. All visitors are now sniffed by dope dogs trained by TDCJ officers. If they "hit" on a visitor, then that visitor is off the list for 90 days. If it happens again, they are banned for life! No "dope" needs to be found- just "oh my dog smells dope, you're out!" Tell me that's going to stay legit, or be straight across the board! Just shutting us down all ways they can...I don't get visitors, so whatever, but it's crazy. No cards? No postcards? Only through TDCJ "Flickshop.com" cards are now allowed. No paper but plain. Man, I love those postcards you all sent me! I keep them all in order, and look at them when the cell gets to be hard on me. I love Fire Ant, and now I don't know if I'm even allowed to get the zine, because it's got pictures. I'm still not being allowed back into population. Over 6 years total in solitary confinement, but I'm fighting, and only 5 years left on this 15 year sentence.
Love and solidarity forever,
Noah Coffin

where do we go from here? A stand against raping the earth.
By: Noah Coffin
feat: Patrick Rater

How long has California been plagued by the ravages of fire? Can anyone tell me that the 70 and even 80 degree temperatures in December and January don't give them cause for at least pause? To take a moment of reflection upon the happenings concerning the earth we live on? - I've read many writings concerning cycles and seasons or educated estimations of them; Ice ages and hot climes.. I'm not educated enough to say if our influences do usher in these cycles prematurely however I do know I'm not blind nor dispassionate enough to disregard what's plain to see. Australia is home to some of the most unique and amazing forms of life. A place of vast expanses of diverse habitats and the only location on planet earth you'll find many beautiful creatures. One of my favorites is the duck billed platypuss.. Australia is burning. Hundreds of Millions of acres have been destroyed. Last estimation was that 35% of the Koala population are gone forever to the horrible fate of being cooked alive... Will they be able to rebound? What of the many other animals or even plant life that's suffered the violent loss of life and of habitat? Something must be done to at the very least not Aid in the decimation of the planet we live on.

Water is essential to life. So too is the air we breathe and there is absolutely without a doubt damage done to both by the "Civilized World." The industrial complex trudges on, cold and brutal.

Fracking pollutes groundwater and drilling rigs offshore poison the oceans. Refineries choke the ozone with toxic fumes, smoke and gases which makes even rain water questionable to consume. While water and air are at the very least negatively altered in humanities leaping bounds toward "civilized utopia", food is also being threatened by our "advancements" methods. Not to mention the previously stated ill effects upon our planet certainly do effect our foods, whichever diet you consume. Genetically modified crops are replacing our natural nutritious plants and tampering with eco systems have introduced destructive diseases into the animal population. My comrade has a few facts to share on the effects of Gmo and introducing detrimental elements into the environment...

As the labs and Scientist work with government to take the place of fresh and natural crops along with jobs and land from farmers, many things are effected around the world.

Though these few facts have nothing to do with the "price of tea in China", they are dangerously effected enough to put on the table. Did you know America used to have some 5,000 strains of Apple? Now just a few hundred and only a hundred years ago India was known to have over 100,000 natural strains of rice, but from things like Gmo and underpriced marketing they have dwindled down to just a few thousand. Not to mention the damage done by the drastic change in environment; heatwaves droughts, fire etc...

If all that isn't disturbing enough you don't mind knowing that the labs are Literally poisoning us through everything on the people's dime.

From our drinking water that has been polluted to our soil and now our food. Are we to blame? Did we do something wrong so as to poison us like this? Our loved ones are suffering of course, but how about the animals? Does anyone think about them? The ones who can't help themselves. How about the plants? Are they to blame?

It's all really obvious that the nutritional value to the whole isn't at all important to the ones who are raking in the profit. While they also take over the land that used to occupy healthy crops so they can degrade the soil with their poisonous and unnatural seed, they are depending on these crops to fast produce more and larger quantity of product. Cheaper product to mass produce, more money for the man at the top...

Take note of these facts and key points. Are you doing everything possible to make a difference? Every little bit helps. Don't be Part of the ~~herd~~^{herd} because that's what they rely on and plan for... Go all-natural and pay attention to what's in the product your ingesting. Don't poison yourself and set an example for the ones that you influence. If it's this generation or the next together we can stand and make a difference. Solidarity.
PATRICK

Taking Action in this really must be world wide. while we are in respect to the world population but few, we can start by setting a foundation for others to stand on. Gmo crops are pushing out the natural plants. if we dont buy them their market will fall. if there is no money in it the elites wont push it. How does this have to do with Australia or California or anyplace globally being plagued by drought and, consequently, fire?? when huge masses of "cash crops" are being carved out of and into natural landscapes the very climate suffers. We're talking hundreds and thousands of acres that are naturally diverse with plant life which maintains the climate being first eradicated then seeded with frankenskin food and toxic fertilizers then the balance is tipped and the result is nothing natural. Go out of your way to buy your foods from local farm to markets. Boycott any foods that are not natural or that are ~~produced~~ by using toxic fertilizers. The safest bet would be - ~~buy~~ from the little guy. Small farmers often rotate crops which naturally coincide with their property rather than flood their land with poisons to force the crops as they too eat their crops... Solidarity forever

One way or another,

Wherever we are situated in this society, our future boils down to two options: accepting our fate and trying to reduce the harm to our bodies and the environment on a piecemeal basis—or actively resisting in order to interrupt the disaster and implement our own solutions. If there is anything that scientists, sociologists, military strategists, and day laborers all agree on, it is that we are headed for global collapse.

Those who hold power seek to take advantage of hurricanes, forest fires, and pandemics to impose more and more invasive forms of control on us. Their responses to crises always prioritize protecting their own privileges and profits while they treat the rest of us as expendable. We can't trust our survival to their expertise.

If we resign ourselves to the future implied by catastrophic climate change, widespread pollution, and ecological collapse, sooner or later, the disaster will come for us. In some parts of the world, people are already forced to wear masks when they leave the house just to protect themselves from poisoned air, toxic waste, or infectious conditions.

If we do not accept the destruction of our lives, our land, our food, and everything that connects us with each other and the biosphere as a whole, we have to fight to regain control over the conditions of our lives and the decisions that determine our survival. In a world of police, prisons, surveillance cameras, we will have to wear masks that conceal who we are so we can fight for what we really want.

one day we'll all wear masks.

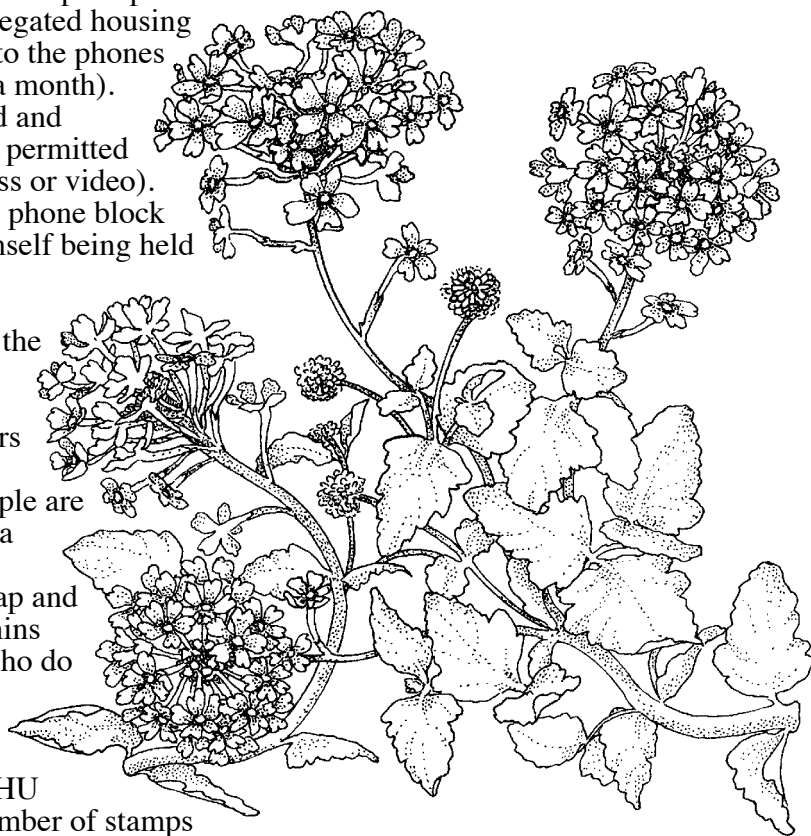

Word from Eric amid the COVID-19 outbreak

We have word from Eric. FCI Englewood has cancelled visits for 30 days. However, staff has yet to wear masks into the facility. With the BOP on a hiring freeze, it is going to get really interesting if prisoners start to get sick. The BOP has issued a statement saying that attorney visits are also suspended for 30 days. The BOP is so quick to cut outside visits because prisoners are such a vulnerable population, yet they will not spend the $.50 per guard per day to prevent staff from infecting prisoners. Eric says that they took “the good soap” leaving them with this horrible grainy prison-brand soap. Prisoners are also being denied access to the law library at FCI Englewood.

The BOP has issued a statement saying that prisoners are now allowed to purchase 500 phone minutes in comparison to the previous 300 minutes before to help keep families in contact. However, the reality is many in the segregated housing units (SHU) across the BOP do not have access to the phones (and if they do, they get just one 15 minute call a month). They do not have access to email, letters are held and delayed by the prison and now they are not even permitted legal or regular visits (SHU visits are behind glass or video). FCI Englewood is choosing to uphold the illegal phone block they brought against Eric. Suddenly he finds himself being held pretty incommunicado again.

This is a reality Eric shares with so many across the nation. Forced to wait helpless while the prison fails to act to keep them safe. During this pandemic, prison staff who interact with prisoners should be wearing masks to help limit the transmission of the virus. During incubation people are contagious so at the very least, masks should be a requirement for ALL staff interacting with prisoners. Further, the BOP needs to give out soap and cleaning supplies and subsidize the cost of vitamins and medicine to treat illnesses. SHU prisoners who do not have access to email or phones need to be allowed access to email and phone at least once per day while visitation is suspended. The BOP needs to end ALL commissary restrictions for SHU prisoners. They need to also stop limiting the number of stamps SHU prisoners are allowed. Prisoners need to also be allowed unmonitored phone calls to their attorneys while they are being held incommunicado.

The BOP needs to put their plan in writing to keep the over 146,000 people in BOP custody (and the additional 28,000 in other facilities) safe (similar to what every other government agency is currently doing). Simply holding the entire prison population from their loved ones is not handling an outbreak.

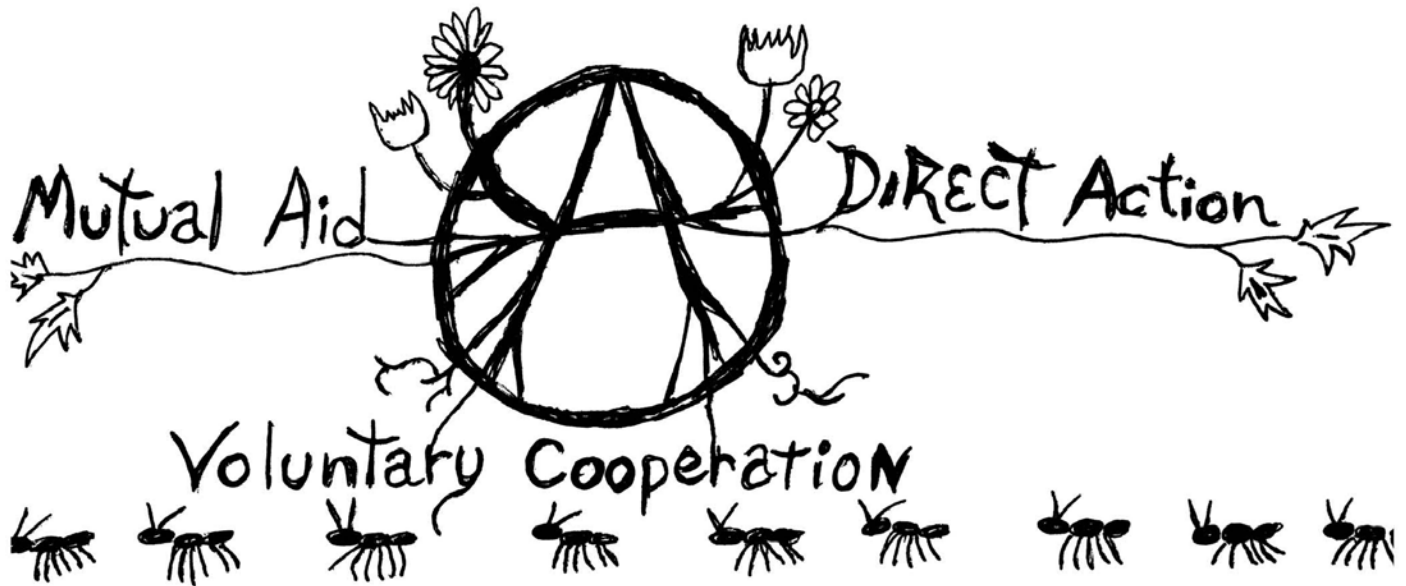

Among that population, the BOP currently has 10,642 prisoners in segregation. This leaves 9,441 prisoners facing the same situation Eric is this morning: in the SHU of a regular BOP prison suddenly finding themselves in complete isolation without even legal visits. On top of that, they have no email access and only one phone call a month if they are lucky. They are often restricted in what they can buy on commissary (including medicine, soap and food). Out of those 10,000 people, only 1,597 are in disciplinary segregation which means the rest of the population (9,441) is not even serving disciplinary sanctions.

From the BOP's indexed files there are currently two prisons with potentially exposed staff and they are not asking the EXPOSED guard's wife who also works at the prison to quarantine. The BOP is not even taking the simple precaution of wearing masks
